A Brief Overview of Polk County's Heritage and Assets

Polk County Narrative Summary

The area, now known as Polk County, was first settled by Native Americans thousands of years ago. White settlers arrived around the middle of the 1700's. There were two main routes running through the area, which most likely followed earlier Indian trails.

One route came through the Hickory Nut Gorge and ran through the present-day Mill Spring. The other was a widely-used drovers' trail that became known as Howard Gap Road and came through the present community of Lynn. Many communities sprang up along those two routes—Cooper's Gap, Sunny View, Mill Spring, Pea Ridge, Green Creek, Stony Knoll, and Lynn. The towns of Tryon and Saluda were settled near the railroad which arrived in the late 1870's.

Because the lack of transportation made it difficult to travel far from home, each community had its own church, school, post office, and gristmill. Polk County was mainly a farming area until after World War II.

The county seat, Columbus, was named after Dr. Columbus Mills, a prominent citizen and a member of the General Assembly when Polk County was formed in 1855. Columbus was a planned town and laid out in a grid pattern—unlike other towns that grew up along railroads, rivers, and crossroads. The Town of Columbus is distinguished by an imposing courthouse, built of handmade brick in 1855. The ancient slave block still remains on the courthouse lawn.

In 1780 the Overmountain Men came through Polk County and camped at Alexander's Ford before turning southeast and on to the Battle of Kings Mountain—a turning point in the American Revolutionary War.

Polk County has a traditional heritage of arts, music, and crafts, such as pottery, rug making, and weaving. Some of its most valuable assets, other than its people, are the natural resources—the mountain ranges, the Pacolet and Green Rivers, numerous waterfalls, and many beautiful and, in some cases, rare native plants. There is a long standing equestrian community and a re-emerging grape industry.

In order to retain and protect the qualities that make Polk County unique, we must accomplish four goals: (1) make an inventory what makes us unique, (2) share this inventory with our fellow citizens, (3) explain the need to maintain and protect these qualities, and (4) encourage the people of Polk County to become partners in achieving the initiatives of the Polk County Blue Ridge National Heritage plan.

Succeeding in these goals will help foster community pride and insure that we carefully plan for economic growth in such a way that we can preserve our natural resources and our rich heritage.

Tryon is the largest city in the area with many residents who migrated from other parts of the country to enjoy the mild climate and beauty of the surrounding countryside. The Hunting Country abounds in large estates and stables to make an equestrian paradise. There are hundreds of miles of marked riding trails. The fox hunts, horse shows, and steeplechase are well known throughout the country. Saluda, on the county's western border, has long enjoyed fame as a vacation area and place of retirement. It is noted for its fine apple orchards which constitute the main source of farm income.

Other communities such as Mill Spring, Sunny View and Green Creek have retained the charm of the Old South. The local roads are all good and provide easy access. An interstate highway, extending from Charleston to Asheville, provides convenient egress from the outside world.

The mountain slopes of the region experience a climatic phenomenon known as the Thermal Belt. This is due to a temperature inversion which results in a belt, rather indefinite in width, wherein the frosts of the valley - or the freezes of the higher altitudes- do not occur. Botanically, the area is rich in native flora. Lakes Adger and Lanier provide aquatic sports and fishing. Some of the clear, cold mountain streams offer good trout fishing in season. Golf, riding and hiking attract devotees who need not await appropriate seasons for such outdoor activities.

An Overview of the Heritage Planning Process in Polk County

The heritage planning working group from Polk County embraced the heritage planning process and this document is a testament to a number of committed individuals with a strong sense of the importance of retaining Polk County's unique characteristics. From the beginning, the heritage team was enthusiastic about the opportunity to compile, organize and create a plan regarding the future of Polk County's heritage resources.

The overarching objectives in Polk County's heritage development plan are the conservation and celebration of the County's rich heritage resources – which include significant cultural, natural and historic resources. During the planning process, the planning team recognized the great potential for a number of conservation, education and historic preservation projects.

A core team of community leaders representing the Historical Society, the Tourism Development Authority, County Government, and others organized the content presented on the following pages. Community input was gathered at a county kick-off event held in October 2004 with representatives from various community agencies and interested community volunteers. Feedback from the community provided a valuable framework in assessing Polk County's priorities and challenges when considering the important steps required for retaining Polk County's heritage and unique characteristics.

Project Narrative:	After acquiring the property at the Harmon Field Community Complex, Tryon Arts and Crafts (TAC) is in the process of renovating the building and setting up the facility for an arts and crafts school, retail space and gallery. Preliminary plans for the gallery area include showcases to house exceptional examples of our native mountain arts and crafts heritage, along with educational information about the items displayed. One of the showcases will be designated for the featured or visiting artist of the month. This exhibit will be used to promote artists of the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area in conjunction with guest speakers, demonstrations and/or workshops. The display cases should be functional yet artistic and inviting. The vision for the gallery is to make it a work of art that will draw visitors from across the region. “Traumfest” is the name of our gallery and gift shop. It is a German word, meaning “Holiday of Dreams”. TAC, with the help of community partners, will create a gallery experience that will bring people into the arts and crafts center to view the exhibits and visit the retail shop. In addition, visitors will have the opportunity to observe or participate in traditional arts and crafts as they are made on site.
---------------------------	---

Goal:	The goal of TAC is to create an arts and crafts center in Polk County that preserves and celebrates the unique craft heritage of the area by focusing on the education, instruction and preservation of the methods and materials used in making arts and crafts. The center will serve local members, students and visitors, as well as people from across the region. TAC will provide a facility where students have the opportunity to express, develop and showcase their creative talent and visitors can learn more about the region’s arts and crafts heritage. Once completed, TAC will become a valued resource in the Western North Carolina community; a destination where its members, students and visitors can spend the day, with a variety of things to do and see.
--------------	---

Person/Organization Responsible:	Cost to Implement:	Estimated Time to Complete:
Tryon Arts & Crafts	$40,000	8 months

Action Items:	Resources Required:	Who’s Responsible:
1. Gallery floor plan development	1. Architect, Designer and Planning Committee	1. TAC
2. Construct and/or purchase display units per plan	2. Contract labor and Materials (wood, glass, hardware, etc.)	2. TAC, community partners and grant funding
3. Acquire handmade items for display/exhibit	3. Folklorist/historian to consult on display/exhibit items	3. TAC, community sponsors and grant funding
4. Develop educational material for the display/exhibit information	4. Folklorist/historian to consult on display/exhibit information	4. TAC and grant funding
5. Complete set up of gallery to include furniture and character lighting.	5. Electrician, Designer and volunteers	5. TAC, community partners and grant funding

Performance Measures:	Tryon Arts and Crafts will measure performance by the number of students attending classes and workshops, by the number of visitors to the center, by tracking its membership growth and by the amount of community support through giving. Measures of performance will also include the number of public groups using the facilities, i.e., Polk, Henderson and Rutherford Schools, Senior Centers, churches and civic organizations. TAC held its first artist demonstration on September 12th with potter, Yosuke Koizumi from Shimpo Japan. The center had received occupancy notice for the building just 10 days prior to the event. With limited publicity, TAC welcomed over 30 enthusiastic guests for the afternoon event that was free and open to the public. Plans are to hold four events of this nature in the first two years and expand to six the following year.
------------------------------	---

Status:	RELOCATION COMPLETE. The Harmon Field Community Complex property was purchased by TAC on May 17, 2006 and relocation to this facility at 373 Harmon Field Road completed September 2006. Renovation of the facility was overseen by VP Jerry Pospisil and a task force committee. The middle school building offers 10,000 square feet providing TAC opportunity for growth. In this new location TAC has been able to expand class offerings and bring all its students together in one building. This enables TAC to serve a much broader segment of the community, county and region. A blacksmith studio and a heritage gallery funded by a grant from the BRNHA have been added to the facility. In addition a showcase area and gallery provides a display and sales area for hand crafted products.

Initiative Title:	Establish and Maintain Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail in Polk County
-------------------	--

Project Narrative:	The Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail (OVT) was authorized by the U.S. Congress in September 1980 and commemorates the campaign that led to American victory at the Revolutionary War battle of Kings Mountain in the fall of 1780. Administered by the National Park Service the Trail is established and maintained through a variety of different partnerships. It consists of a Commemorative Motor Route, which uses existing state highways, as well as a non-motorized route. The latter is still being developed, but will eventually stretch some 330 miles through four different states. Within North Carolina there are 204 miles of the Commemorative Motor Route, as well as potentially 201 miles of the non-motorized trail. The trail passes through nine counties in North Carolina, all of which are included in the BRNHA. As of December 2004, 34 miles of the non-motorized route within the state had been established and were publicly accessible.
--------------------	---

Polk Co. Goal:	Mark all 20 miles of the Commemorative Motor Route in Polk County, as well as establish and mark all 18 miles of the non-motorized route within the county. Proper interpretive waysides and exhibits, as well as special events connected to the Trail story, will also be developed and maintained.

Initiative Title:	Eunice Waymon-Nina Simone Memorial Project (NSP)

Project Narrative:	The Eunice Waymon—Nina Simone Memorial Project (NSP) exists to honor the remarkable life and career of a native, African-American, Tryon, North Carolina, and Blue Ridge daughter, who achieved recognition in a global theatre for her unique talent and her formidable contributions both to the musical arts and to equal rights activism. Simone personally styled herself a FOLK SINGER, and she styled her unique fusion of pop, gospel, classical, jazz, folk, and ballads “Black Classical Music,” a phrase originated by Duke Ellington. That music had its regional roots in her early development and training in rural North Carolina, which she carried with her throughout her meteoric rise to international fame. The Nina Simone Project undertakes to accomplish four related goals. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Support a broad-based education program, to include such educational and preservation outreach initiatives as the: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Creation of scholarships, 2) Development of in-school programs suitable for local, regional, and national dissemination, 3) Preservation of Simone’s material historical record (i.e., physical-form bibliography to include, among others, such ephemera as photographic items, concert memorabilia recording and appearance contracts, oral histories, audio and video archives and other holographic materials). 4) Promotion of Simone as an important Tryon and Polk County and Western North Carolina cultural and heritage resource, (recognizing in her educational path a broad community initiative and a cooperative partnership and in her music an explicit and continued immersion in the traditional music of her youth), • Commission a life-sized, memorial, bronze sculpture for a public art installation • Develop the Nina Simone (Trans-World) Music Festival as a signature Tryon, Polk County, and North Carolina event • Provide partnering opportunities for outreach support & benefit programming to Nina Simone’s designated charities: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Cancer research in underserved communities, 2) Restoration of arts programs in public education, 3) Prevention of abuse against women, and 4) AIDS education, care, & research.

The weekly program is syndicated to over 50 radio outlets world-wide. During each broadcast, listeners in the affiliate radio markets are prompted to visit the Radio YUR website. Currently the website delivers an “on demand” mp3 audio stream of selected KingPup Radio Show programs. At present the website, www.radioyur.com, enjoys 600 unique visits per day with an average of 60 audio downloads per day. This project will partner with e-Polk Inc., a nonprofit organization formed in 2002 to leverage high-speed Internet service for the improvement of the quality of life in the local area. The project will utilize the advanced fiber optic connectivity offered by e-Polk’s PANGEA network of broadband technology in Polk County. Increased fiber optic connectivity will allow the radio YUR website to deliver 24/7 audio and video streams to a greater number of concurrent Internet visitors. The multimedia content will consist of additional KingPup material along with a variety of unique programming to include recorded music, storytelling and specially produced audio and video projects. The content will showcase the heritage and artistry of the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area. Cherokee traditions, folk, bluegrass and Appalachian stringband musicians, storytellers, writers, multimedia artists and students from throughout the region will be encouraged to submit content. The project will present the works of emerging talent as well as established artists. Travel and tourism interests and area business will be given the opportunity to become partners in showcasing their activities in a focused multi-media rich environment. The 24/7 audio stream at Radio YUR will be marketed as “America’s hometown radio station from the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina” and will reflect the lifestyle and values of the region’s many small towns and rural communities. The video content will supplement any existing web activities of the partners and will offer a visual element to their current marketing strategies.
--------------------	---

Goal:	1.The content will engage a world wide audience to further explore the region’s vast treasure trove of creativity and position the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area and Polk county as travel destinations. 2.To become self sustaining through an active partnership with tourism interests within the Blue Ridge Heritage Area. 3. To become self sustaining by securing national and regional sponsors .

Initiative Worksheet

Initiative Title:	The KingPup Radio Show; a region wide marketing initiative
-------------------	--

Project Narrative:	The KingPup Radio Show is a 15 and 30 minute traditional and contemporary American “roots music” radio program that is delivered free of charge to domestic and international commercial and non-commercial radio stations on compact discs. The program is produced by Aster Productions of Tryon, NC. The program is marketed as Americana music featuring live performances of several American music genre including: Bluegrass, Folk, Southern Appalachian Stringband, Gospel, Blues, Acoustic Country among others. The program is hosted by veteran performers and radio hosts Phil & Gaye Johnson of Tryon, North Carolina and is currently syndicated to over 52 radio outlets worldwide. Presenting the vibrant history and artistry of the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area through artistically engaging radio programming is a cost effective way to brand the region as a “living heritage” resource. The KingPup Radio Show is the first nationally syndicated program of its type to emerge from western North Carolina to offer a consistent radio presence. The KingPup Radio Show is targeted to a mature (25 - 55) consumer market. The core of this market are current “baby boomers” who continue to support the “Americana” music genre by purchasing music audio and video products, music related books and manuals, as well as related souvenir type products. They also regularly travel to attend concert and festival events where this genre of music is offered and to participate as students in annual week-long music camps. The KingPup Radio Show embraces the tradition of local country music radio programs that flourished throughout rural America during the 1930’s and 40’s. These regional versions of the national “barn dance” programs were the life-blood of Country music during this time and always presented the best of regional entertainment drawing upon the artistic resources of the rural community. Aster Productions will continue this tradition by traveling to and partnering with host presenters within the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area establishing KingPup Radio Show concert events to be recorded for world-wide radio distribution. These concerts will be promoted as special events or be included in the activities at ongoing events such as Folk, Bluegrass or Old Time music festivals, downtown city street festivals or annual rural events and county fairs. The recorded concerts will include the host band (Phil & Gaye Johnson), plus three or four regional performing artists, groups and storytellers as “Guest Artists”. Besides the distribution to world-wide terrestrial radio affiliates, The KingPup Radio Show will be cross-promoted on specialty music sites on the internet including its current home www.radioYUR.com as well as traditional print media: folk, bluegrass, and acoustic Americana music periodicals as well as newspaper entertainment features and travel periodicals.
--------------------	---

	In addition to offering a high quality concert event, the host partner will receive extremely cost effective radio advertisement. Each concert event will yield at least three complete KingPup radio programs. Each thirty minute program will contain at least five advertising opportunities. Traditional artists from the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area will receive much needed national and international radio exposure, any effort at gaining radio airplay is essential to the growth of an artist's career.
--	--

Goal:	Achieve greater radio carriage by continuing to add new radio affiliates especially in those regions that have been identified as heritage tourism targets, the mid-Atlantic states and the Atlanta metro area. Establish a consistent listenership tuning in each week to experience authentic artists from the mountains of North Carolina. Encourage listeners on each broadcast to visit the companion www.radioYUR.com website at their convenience to enhance their Blue Ridge Heritage experience by accessing the mp3 streaming audio files and learning more about the area. The website will engage a world wide audience to further explore the region's vast treasure trove of creativity and position the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area as a travel destination. To become self sustaining through an active partnership with other counties in the Blue Ridge Heritage Area as host presenters. Secure national and regional sponsors. Secure additional grants.

-------------------	---

Project Narrative or Description:	This project, created by The Pacolet Area Conservancy, is designed to establish a Natural Resource Mobile Classroom which is educational, fun, interactive, and motivational. This informational setting will present a historical perspective and evolution of the importance of our mountains, watersheds, and foothills. Visitors will travel through a virtual ecosystem of natural resources native to the Polk County area. Endangered species, plant families, water systems and animals, found only in this area where the mountains meet the Piedmont, set the stage for understanding the special natural characteristics of the land and waterways here. The impact of human development and interaction will be explored through interactive exhibits demonstrating cause and effect. One example of such an exhibit is a large scale expansion of PAC’s watershed model, which allows participants to “spill” erosion into a watershed area and witness the results. The current tabletop model has provided a testing ground for extremely successful, energizing small scale interactive educational forums for sixth graders. The mobile classroom will take the same principle to a much more professional level designed to attract large groups of school children, individuals, and families. Housed at the Foothills Equestrian and Nature Center (FENCE) in Tryon, the Foothills Natural Resource Mobile Classroom will take advantage of the large numbers of school children already visiting FENCE. Here, in a setting already designated for nature and education, the natural heritage of the Polk County area will be explored and honored for posterity. As time and humans continue to alter the landscape of this area, future generations will be able to “live” in the virtual ecological jewel of 2006-07 created by the mobile classroom. Visitors to the mobile classroom will understand the vision and goal of the Pacolet Area Conservancy: PAC Vision: A community living and growing in harmony with our natural heritage. PAC Goal: To provide a legacy that will endure and be valued by future generations.

Goal:	To create a place to educate all ages and socio-economic levels of the local and regional population about the unique natural resource inventory of the Polk County area: ultimately, to motivate the protection and preservation of these natural resources.

Initiative Title:	The Rutherford Polk Highway 74 Broad Green Corridor Partnership Initiative
--------------------------	--

Project Narrative:	Working through existing county offices and departments in both Rutherford and Polk Counties the initiative is designed to raise awareness of the unique natural capital of the Highway 74 Broad River / Green River corridor traveling through Rutherford and Polk Counties. Partnering with various organizations in both counties, the initiative strives to preserve, protect, and share with other communities this unique western North Carolina gateway corridor. Through developing inter-local agreements between Rutherford and Polk Counties and by surveying, identifying, and documenting historical buildings, sites, viewsheds, and natural resources within the corridor and conducting and promoting related activities at all educational levels, the Rutherford Polk Highway 74 Broad Green Corridor Partnership Initiative increases community awareness and involvement in natural resource preservation.

Goal:	For Rutherford and Polk County governments to take the lead in developing a comprehensive program of natural resource preservation in Polk County, North Carolina and to work towards sustaining the program in partnership with local organizations, associations, and private citizens in Rutherford and Polk Counties and the surrounding area.

INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title:	“Tryon Area Equestrian Heritage Conservation Initiative”
-------------------	--

Project Narrative:	The purpose of the Equestrian Triangle Conservation Initiative is to leverage existing organizations and infrastructure to preserve our equestrian and walking trails before they are lost to development, by encouraging local landowners to place their trails and, where possible, surrounding land under permanent easement. Polk County has a strong equestrian heritage (see attachments. The equestrian community, its landscape--and specifically our equestrian trails-- is an integral, defining and economically valuable part of who we are, and our trail system is an integral part of that cultural history. Many of our trails date to the old Cherokee hunting grounds, or to settlements from the 1800’s. Several abandoned grist and sawmills can still be seen along the trails. Equestrian activity dates at least to Wade Hampton, and has been central to the identity of the area ever since. We believe it is also central to the conservation and preservation effort in the area. Trail organizations such as FETA, CETA, NPA and others currently provide well over a hundred miles of equestrian and hiking trails, primarily on privately owned land made available through the cooperation of landowners. In the past 2 ½ years, one of the trail organizations, CETA, has launched a successful initiative to encourage landowners to voluntarily place privately owned trails under permanent easement. Thus far, just under half of their 100 pus landowners have done so, representing approximately 20 miles of trails. Another trail organization, FETA, has recently coordinated with a local developer to incorporate deeded easements into a new equestrian community, currently under development. The primary method to be used by the initiative is to help coordinate the efforts of our existing infrastructure to put conservation and equestrian easements in place much faster than could be done by having these organizations act alone. For example: Each trail organization, equestrian club & Hunt has a vested interest in trail preservation. Each holds an annual meeting, yet no one from Pacolet Area Conservancy (PAC), or any other conservation group attends to educate members about conservation & trail easements. Opportunity lost. No one from Polk County Community Foundation (PCCF) or PAC attends to ask for donations to a preservation fund. Opportunity lost. If a committee representing PAC, PCCF and trail organizations could make presentations at these annual meetings to educate members about the desirability and advantages of conservation and trail easements, they would likely find a sympathetic

audience of people willing to either establish easements, make tax deductible contributions to a preservation fund, or both. The interests of the host organizations would also be served.

Currently, if PCCF receives land as a donation, either outright or for a charitable remainder trust, the land is donated & sold without anyone from PAC or the local equestrian clubs being aware so that they could approach the donor, or PCCF, about either granting easements or selling them. Opportunity lost.

Currently, if PAC receives a conservation easement from a horse owner with horse trails, no one discusses trail easements, so none are recorded. Opportunity lost.

Despite the proximate existence and shared interests of PCCF, PAC & all the equestrian trail systems in Tryon, no fund has existed at PCCF to serve PAC & the equestrian communities shared goal of preserving trails. Opportunity lost.

There is no mechanism to have a tax deductible fund which could buy property, establish trails & resell it; or simply buy easements on property about to be sold. Opportunity lost.

With the establishment of a “Special Projects Fund”, and with ongoing communication & coordination, grantors of land could be approached about the tax advantages of establishing easements prior to the gift. If that is not enough incentives, the fund might either buy easements, or buy the land after the gift, establish easements & resell it, in a self-perpetuating manner.

There are real estate agents who specialize in equestrian property, often advertising that it has access to one or more of the trail systems. These properties are worth more because of trail access, yet agents do not coordinate in any way with those trail systems, & there’s no other organization to represent the systems’ interest. Many agents don’t educate buyers or sellers about easements, nor do they arrange for buyers & sellers to meet with someone who can. Opportunity lost.

Ditto for developers.

We know that being on a trail system adds many thousands of dollars to the value of land. The more well-recognized the trail system, the greater the increase in value. We need to use that value boost to create more trails and preserve the ones we already have. By branding the area & creating value around that brand, we could leverage it by bestowing a “certified trail-friendly” designation to agents & developers who meet standards of education & practice defined by the Equestrian Triangle Board, we can provide incentives:

for realtors to:

- * seek to obtain certification for its business value;
- * communicate the value of trails to both sellers & buyers (brochure);
- * accurately represent whether the property adjoins existing trail systems;
- * work with area coordinators to establish new trails and link them, for

- the benefit of all involved;
- * continue to build the brand by advertising with our logo;

For developers to:

- * seek to obtain and maintain certification for its business value;
- * increase the value & marketability of developments by incorporating trail systems;
- * avoid misrepresentations about access to other trail systems;
- * through reciprocal agreements (now in place), qualify new trail systems for incorporation into existing larger systems;
- * refrain from closing existing sections of trails since doing so would disqualify buyers from membership, thus reducing the value of their property;
- * design and build low-density developments compatible with equestrian trails and the preservation of greenspace;
- * continue to build the brand by advertising with our logo.

In addition, Polk County is becoming a center for viticulture. By combining the attractions of viticulture and equestrian activities, we may produce a synergy to make Polk a destination spot for regional tourism activity, reinforcing our brand while we build its commercial value.

Larry Byers of the Equestrian Land Conservation resource wrote that this initiative may serve as “a model for many parts of the country” (see attachments, “support letters”. We agree that the techniques identified can be replicated in many communities.

Resources

Polk County and surrounding areas have an unusually sophisticated infrastructure already in existence. The Polk county Community Foundation, Pacolet Area Conservancy and FENCE demonstrate this. In addition, the equestrian community has evolved a series of organizations, including FETA, CETA, NPA, BRHJ Carolina Carriage Club Tryon Hounds and Green Creek Hounds. Furthermore, there exists small core of local real estate agents who deal primarily in equestrian properties. Finally, we have a very sophisticated local talent pool, consisting largely of retired professionals who have come here specifically for the lifestyle created by our trails & equestrian organizations. There is a strong element of cross-memberships, both across the equestrian organizations, and also extending to the Community Foundation, PAC and FENCE and the real estate agents mentioned above.

By coordinating the efforts of these organizations around their common interest, we could create a tremendous synergy which could allow us to make our trail systems permanent, before they are lost.

Goal:	To dramatically increase the number and total mileage of trails under permanent easement.

IV. Created a committee to develop the criteria for "Certified Trail-Friendly" designations for local developers and real estate professionals- Laura May (ReMax), Bonnie Lingerfelt (ReMax) & Bill Ennis (Developer, Hughes Creek Preserve).

V. Discussed the fact that PAC and the PCCF have been working together to establish a Special Projects Fund to support the trail and conservation easement initiative. Details are still being finalized, by Sally Walker (PAC), Elizabeth Nager (PCCF) and Peter Shanahan.

(See attachments for directory of attendees)

We also received excellent press coverage (see attachments)

Second Meeting 09/06/2006:

I. Discussed and approved a working mission statement to help define our purpose going forward.

II. Agreed on a "Brand", including name (Equestrian Triangle), slogan (Follow The Trails), draft logo and layout for a brochure.

Larry Wassong has offered to refine the draft logo and brochure, and is already hard at work.

III. Agreed on a name for the committee. We are the "Equestrian Triangle Conservation Board"

IV. Regarding the Special Projects Fund, we identified the spending criteria that will need to be clearly spelled out, including

- a. What types of expenses can it fund?
- b. What is the process to approve disbursement of the funds?
- c. Who would be eligible to receive the funds?

Sally Walker (PAC), Elizabeth Nager (PCCF), Peter Shanahan & perhaps several others will meet prior to our next Committee meeting to work through some specifics

V. Created a subcommittee to finalize our grant application to the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area (Peter Shanahan, Judy Davis) and to gather letters of support (Dot Moyer)

Once again, we received very positive press coverage.

INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title:	Mill Spring School Project: Agricultural Development Center
--------------------------	---

Project Narrative:	In December 2009 the abandoned Mill Spring School was donated to the Polk Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD). The school established in 1928 will be renovated as an agriculture development center and community center for Polk County and the surrounding region. The vision for the project is: “To enhance community spirit and quality of life by working with farmers, local businesses and individual citizens to promote the sustainable economic growth and rural character of Polk County. Collaborative projects and innovation include agriculture, natural resources, education, tourism, health and wellness, folk and heritage art and music.” The School adjoins the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail Motor Route. The project includes renovations of the school by grants, fund raising, donations and volunteers.

Goal:	To have the Mill Spring School renovated as a multi-purpose center and green building by 2015.

INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title: The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers Museum

Project Narrative: A toy and wood carving enterprise was established by Charlotte Yale and Eleanor Vance after creating a successful model for the All Souls Church in Biltmore Village as part of an outreach program. Their success soon caught the attention of Edith Vanderbilt. Mrs. Vanderbilt's financial subsidies helped to sustain the school until it was eventually brought under her ownership and then called the Biltmore Estate Industries. Misses Yale and Vance moved to Tryon in 1915 and founded another craft enterprise, The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers.

What is regionally referred to as "The Tryon Toy House" was built in 1925 as both a retail showroom and the office of The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers. The Arts and Craft movement was important to the economy during the early 1900's. Toy making and wood carving were a sustainable source of income to the people of the Appalachian mountains. Vance and Yale sought to utilize native talents to build a sustainable source of income for the economically deprived youth in the Appalachian region. The wood carving classes offered by these two women were as much social services as a dedication to their and the areas art and craft.

In addition to "The Toy House", the museum also hopes to eventually add additional properties that played a key role in The Tryon Toy-Makers' and Wood-Carvers creation, growth, and history. This would also create the ability for the museum to expand its exhibits, classes, outreach and education to Tryon, NC and to all of its visitors.

The Museum will display for its visitors a unique collection of core exhibits that are "hands-on", interactive, engaging and fun. The Museum will also establish key publications, and will engage in learning programs with schools and other institutions. The museum will house a shop featuring original handmade arts that will include hand carved wooden vessels, pottery, glass and of course handmade wooden toys from contemporary artists.

The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers Museum's focus is to increase the public's awareness and knowledge of the craft and history of The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers. By enhancing the public's knowledge of the history of toys and furniture that were created by them the museum will create more of an interest in the history and art of Tryon and the surrounding the areas of the Blue Ridge Mountains. The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers Museum will also educate the public on the traditions of wood working and its aspects in traditional toys. This will include the history created in Tryon, NC by Eleanor Vance and Charlotte Yale.

The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers' close tie with nature can be seen in all of all of their wooden toys and furniture. The museum therefore hopes to also include a natural garden area for picnicking and education of the trees and nature that surround the museum.

The museum's art exhibitions will highlight the original toys, furniture and wood works created at by The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers. These in addition to historical exhibitions educating their impact on the region and the connections they shared with other organizations such as Biltmore Estate Industries and The Grovewood Gallery. These exhibitions will include not only their national reputation but their contribution to N.C. and the entire region. Additional future partnerships include The Grovewood Gallery, Spartanburg Art Museum, Tryon Arts and Craft, Polk County Travel and Tourism, Biltmore House History and Research Dept, Tryon Fine Arts Center, Tryon Downtown Development Association, The Biltmore Estate, and many others.

Goal: The goal is to preserve the history of The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers. This in addition to the education and information to continue the creativity of wood crafting that was part of The Toy Maker's of Tryon. The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers Museum will hold classes in toy craft and wood working. These classes will not only include both children and adult classes but wood working classes for retirees. We will procure original works that were made by The Tryon Toy-Makers and Wood-Carvers for exhibition.

INITIATIVE WORKSHEET

Initiative Title:	Tryon Garden Club, Inc. Heritage Projects
-------------------	---

Project Narrative:	The Tryon Garden Club (TGC) is a 501 (c) 3 nonprofit organization incorporated in 1928 as a horticultural club. In 1931 the TGC purchased Pearson's Falls and Glen to preserve this botanical property. The property, now a Blue Ridge National Heritage Area Site, included 268 acres of forest, a 90-foot water fall and unique native North Carolina flora and fauna. The property is open the public at a nominal fee and has been used as an outdoor laboratory used by area schools and botany departments of surrounding colleges universities. TGC has a multipurpose mission incorporating four major areas: Pearson's Falls, Education, Civic Beautification and Collaborating with Others TGC plans to expand its educational programs and workshops that focus on the natural wonder of the fall's property in its natural state and the management of forest lands to demonstrate possible economic returns for local area forest land owners. While improving and maintaining the Falls property the TGC business plan is considering a future project, the exploration into Agroforestry (Forest Farming). A scientific research project may be undertaken to demonstrate non-timber "special forest products" of naturally occurring patches of floral greenery, nuts, berries, herbs or medicinals that have a commercial value for farmers in the area. The TGC plans to increase partnerships with local, state and national organizations for all our projects and programs. The partnerships will include North Carolina State University, University of North Carolina Asheville, Clemson University, U. S. Department of Forestry, Polk County Agricultural Economic Development Center, Polk County Cooperative Extension, Foothills Equestrian Nature Center and other garden clubs.
--------------------	---

Goal:	The TGC plans to improve each visit to the Pearson's Falls property and the Town of Tryon with the Following. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Building a New Visitors/Education Center • Building an Outdoor Class Room Amphitheater • Improving Parking Facilities • Improving the Falls Entry Road • Add additional Educations Programs • Enhance Youth Education Programs • Expanding Civic Beautification Projects The Pearson's Falls property is designated as a Smithsonian Institute's Archives of American Gardens, a North Carolina Birding Trail Site, a Blue Ridge National Heritage Area Site and contains over 200 species of native plants. The TGC has shown its ability to continue as a thriving organization and taking on new challenges within the guide lines of its charter, by-laws and non-profit status. These proposals are a natural progression of the clubs history.

The expansion of the TGC civic beautification program will include participation in a project located on Route 176 in Tryon at the North Carolina - South Carolina state line. This proposed project in cooperation with the Town of Tryon is the "Gateway" to the Town, the County, the State and the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The TGC is also investigating the creation of a visitors/education center at Pearson's Falls that includes the demonstration of an ancient food source that has been lost because of oversight, urbanization and the industrial revolution. The term Gathering in the "Hunting and Gathering" has been lost in favor of chemically aided grain farming producing narrow food selections and causing soil deterioration. Under canopy products can be grown with reduced labor costs, reduced carbon energy usage and all the while protecting the soil and trees of the forest.
